A Note from the Editor

By Chris Hansen

Hello Striders! Thanks to all the membership for the articles, essay's, race results, and anything that's interesting and fitting for the Mohegan Strider newsletter. It is what we all make of it. Marshall Collins has become a regular contributor, "Coach's Corner" is back, and after lengthy contract negotiations the much-anticipated return of "Short Takes" has occurred.

More rambling: I hope everyone had a good time at the Strider Banquet. It's always one of my favorite events of the year. It just goes by to quick. Once I pick up my guitar it's over in a flash. Which leads me to my next thought. The Strider band, formerly known as The RUNZ, are no longer. That is no longer to be called the RUNZ, not sure where the name ever came from, maybe it was Curtiss's idea--just kidding--he hates the name. Must have been Steve. Additionally, we the "?", are playing a couple of places this summer. The John Kelly/Ocean Beach 11.6 miler being one of those places. We need a new name. As of right now, Way has deemed us "The Strider All-Star Band", for use on the road race applications. However, we would like to elicit suggestions from the membership as to a new Strider band name. The winning name will receive a product of their choice from the Strider Web Store. So, start your brainstorming!

Email your suggestions to me at clehansen@netzero.net

President's Corner

By Tim Kane

Amazingly enough, March is upon us and spring is just a few workouts away! It will be great to see this winter's cold days increasingly distant in the rearview mirror but, before those images of icicles, hats, and multiple pairs of gloves disappear until next winter, let's take a look back at an off season that had very little off time.

The Saturday Morning Slug Runs have, once again, been extremely successful. Anywhere from 25 to 45 people have been moving week to week throughout southeastern Connecticut, enjoying the homes of various accommodating hosts and relishing the opportunity to run with a group of friends through some of the coldest weather in years. Thanks to Marshall Collins for doing his usual efficient job of organizing and to all those run hosts who have willingly sacrificed home cleanliness to accommodate the post run onslaught. The most interesting trend at the runs this year has been the accumulation of clothing from shoes to gloves to hats left behind at run sites each week. What surer sign of our aging group is there than this habitual forgetfulness? Most people have reclaimed their forgotten items but Chris Picklo reports that the size 34 men's briefs left on the floor of her bathroom have yet to be reunited with their owner.

The Strider Banquet is still fresh in everyone's memories. It was another year for the record books with a record 107 Striders and guests filling the Port 'n Starbord at Ocean Beach on Saturday night, February 21st to have a hot time in the midst of a very cold winter. Fully 20% of the attendees were walk-up, paying at the door which left officials scrambling to set up enough seating but that was the only minor snafu of the evening. The food was plentiful and good, the company was outstanding, and the band, despite a number of personnel gyrations (more on this later) rarely missed a beat putting on a superb performance.

Many people deserve kudos for their efforts in making this banquet one for the records. Chris and Lynne Hansen deserve all our thanks for a great job of organizing and coordinating with Ocean Beach to produce such a fine evening. The Strider band, including Chris, Curtiss, Jim, Todd, Laurie, and Amy, put on another great show giving rise to the familiar questions of when they would be seen playing at venues other than the banquet. Finally, all who attended deserve our thanks for making this event the most successful one of its type put on by any running team anywhere.

One name conspicuous in its absence from the band at the banquet was that of Steve Hancock. Steve's bigger than life personality and singing were sorely missed as was the presence of his wife Brenda as Steve was recovering from major surgery at Yale-New Haven Hospital the night of the banquet. Steve and Brenda were on everyone's mind that night and still are as Steve faces an arduous recovery. While they may not have been present, their presence was deeply felt as Kevin Gallerani organized a massive card to be signed for Steve by all in attendance and Nona Peachey organized a group photo of everyone present encouraging Steve's speedy recovery. The emotional high point of the evening was the Tom Lee and Runz led singing of The Star Spangled Banner, Steve's favorite song, by everyone in attendance while Steve was on the phone listening. I would encourage all of you to keep sending Steve and Brenda your best wishes throughout his recovery period. The best day of 2004 will be the day we have a chance to see both of them at a race or an upcoming Strider event.

While it's been an active winter, it's just the start of what promises to be an exciting, busy 2004 in Strider land. There are lots of events on the horizon including the start of a new Strider Grand Prix series, a revamped USATF racing schedule, the 4th annual Delaney Dash Road Race on the Saturday of Memorial Day weekend, a Strider sponsored event that you can read about further along in this newsletter, along with another Strider Night at Dodd Stadium, this summer's Strider picnic, and many other events that help keep the Mohegan Striders the strong, vibrant club that it is today. I would encourage all of you to join in and participate in these great events and encourage someone you know to join us and become a member. All that we have to offer in the way of great events, fun, and friendship makes our club the best $15 a year bargain anywhere!

Here's hoping for a great spring and perfect running conditions as the year gains momentum. See you on the roads!

STRIDERS..... MORE THAN RUNNERS

It was the early morning of February 20, 2003 and I was on I-95 with my wife Brenda and father-in-law Frank Baldino heading toward Yale New Haven Hospital to undergo major surgery intended to remove a cancerous growth on my pancreas.

In the preceding days leading up to this operation I was overwhelmed by the many cards, e-mails and phone calls from people who to be quite honest I didn't realize cared much about me.

As I continued down 95 my mind reflected on so many things that I have had the pleasure to see and do throughout my 56 years and yet I would continually come back to memories of running and the unique friends and people met over the years.

It was with disappointment that I would miss the opportunity to attend the Strider banquet and partake in the annual celebration which has truly become a highpoint of the club. An evening filled with recognition of our outstanding competitive runners that carry our legacy throughout the state and the many club members who just love to be out there running and socializing with the likes of their own.

For those that know me they know I am an admitted die-hard patriot that has enjoyed spreading the sense of patriotism wherever I go to road races or other events proudly being known as a member of the Mohegan Striders.

Having to bow out of band practices with the "RUNZ" just a couple of weeks before the banquet I knew I would not be able to perform with them that night. I asked my dear friend Tom Lee if he would do me a favor before things got really rocking and sing my favorite song "The National Anthem".

Saturday night as I lay in bed recovering at Yale I received a call from Tom and heard the most wonderful rendition of that song sung by those in attendance at the banquet. You can't imagine how uplifted my spirit became and the water that flowed from my eyes that night.

The Mohegan Striders is a unique running club that is so much more than just runners. It's about good people doing good things for their health, good things for their community and good things for their fellow human beings.

I still have a ways to go to full recovery but I will get there by the grace of the Lord, the prayers of many, the positive energy sent to me from so many, as well the inner drive and determination that I have.

Thanks to all..... Steve Hancock

COACH'S CORNER

By Chris Hansen and Don Sikorski

“TOP 10 LIST OF THINGS TO DO TO IMPROVE YOUR RUNNING”

The third article of the Coach's Corner “Top 10” series will offer suggestions not only to improve your own running and racing, but to improve the sport overall. Whether you consider yourself a 5K runner, marathoner, duathlete/triathlete, or a cross-country and trail running specialist, make good on your resolutions and try the following “Top 10” suggestions from Coach's Corner to improve your running and the sport in general:

#10 DEVELOP A PLAN OF ATTACK: Whether you strive for a marathon personal best or simply just to lose a few pounds, try and develop a long-term running goal for the year. Write down your plan. Break the year into segments or seasons, with a general training purpose designated for each time period. A plan of attack for the upcoming season will insure adequate training, adequate recovery, and provide a source of motivation. Be sure your plan is flexible and that your goals are reasonable.

#9 RUN LONG DISTANCE: In the last Coach's Corner column, we discussed the training benefits of the long run (see COACH'S CORNER, The Mohegan Striders Running Club Newsletter, January 2004). Long, steady distance (LSD) builds endurance, strengthens the muscles, disciplines the mind, and burns a ton of calories. It is also the cornerstone of any solid training program.

#8 RUN SOMEWHERE OR SOMETHING NEW: Make plans to compete in a race that you have never done before, or to travel to an out of state race where you'll be a relative stranger. Plan a vacation or long weekend and stay overnight. If you're a weekend 5K type of person, look for a 20K or Half Marathon. Try a cross-country race or track meet. For a complete running and racing experience, try to incorporate a mix of low key local races and larger competitive events into your racing plans.

#7 TRAIN WITH SUMMER COMPANY: Summer running in the region offers plenty of opportunities to participate in weekly Summer Racing Series. These racing series offer a chance to socialize with fellow runners while putting in some quality running efforts. The term “race” shouldn't scare you away from participating. Focus on running at the prescribed pace and effort that your training plan calls for each week. Making some of your training runs social takes the “work” out of the workout, and gives you the opportunity to earn a cold beer or two for your efforts. Visit the Strider web site at www.moheganstriders.org for information on group runs that fit into your schedule.

#6 TEMPO: Drill this word into your head.....tempo, tempo, tempo, tempo. One more time: T-E-M-P-O. Ask any Coach or Exercise Physiologist worth their salt that if a runner had time for only one type of workout per week, what would it be? What is the single most important workout that a distance runner can do to improve race performance? What type of effort level is used during most distance races? The answer to all of these questions is a tempo run. Coach's Corner probably sounds like a broken record on this topic. Re-read past articles on the subject for all of the specifics, but in general, tempo running consists of steady-state running at 80-85% of your maximum heart rate for 15-25 minutes in duration. If you're not sure of your heart rate ranges, don't own a heart rate monitor, or are simply too lazy to crunch the numbers for yourself, estimate by knowing that tempo pace is generally 15-20 seconds slower per mile than your current 10K race pace. 85% effort for 15-25 minutes is generally a pace that you could maintain for a 10 mile race. Novices of tempo training may want to start on the track and err on the conservative side; running a pace faster than the targeted threshold will yield inferior results.

#5 DON'T BE GRAY: In order to maximize the benefits of your training, don't be gray--running is black or white. As national class triathlon coach Troy Jacobson remarks, most athletes are always training in the gray zone. Hard training days aren't hard enough, and the easy days aren't easy enough. This pattern usually leads to tired legs without peak results. While the daily training runs may seem difficult—everyday fatigue resulting from pushing the effort just enough to be uncomfortable tells you that you've been doing the work, race results are mediocre compared to training volume. After a solid dose of base mileage during the off-season, focus on more challenging training sessions followed by an active recovery day instead of monotonous runs in those effort zones that should be avoided. As you approach the busy racing season, remember that in order to run fast, you must at times, train fast. Try to include a higher intensity running effort once or twice a week. As your racing season progresses, the fast runs will get faster (at the same effort), and recovery days should become easier. This training pattern, as opposed to a constant diet of hammering the same roads at the same pace and effort day in and day out, will yield superior racing results.

#4 CROSS TRAIN: Try some cross training to improve your running and overall fitness. There is a significant distinction between cross-training and multi-sport racing which must be understood. Cross-training is used to add an extra workout or workouts to a training schedule or as a substitution for a running day. This is a great way to improve fitness or give the body a rest from the pounding that running delivers, yet still stay active. Cross-training, when done correctly, develops non-running muscles, improves form and general conditioning, and strengthens ligaments and tendons. The repetitive motions of running tend to involve only certain muscles, while ignoring others. Multi-sport training is geared towards improving performance at multiple disciplines (swimming, biking, and running for example). Difficult workouts are performed in all disciplines in an effort to achieve superior fitness, whereas cross-training aims to support runners focusing on running. Multi-sport training focuses on each specific sport, with running only part of the plan. Consider an easy bike ride or swim once a week instead of a run.....go outside and play.

#3 RECRUIT FOR THE FUTURE: The “running boom” of the late 1970’s and early 1980’s is long gone, probably never to return. But there are plenty of people out there who may become runners someday. Many just don’t know it yet. Be active in trying to get your friends, family, or co-workers involved in running. Most races don’t have qualifying requirements; many will even welcome walkers. We all started somewhere, so be an active recruiter for your sport.

#2 VOLUNTEER: Become a more active member of your club by volunteering at a race or a Mohegan Striders club event. You will see things from a different perspective; have fun without the pain. Witness firsthand how uncool it really is to deal with runners crossing the finish line with a spouse or friend, for a second time, and telling a visibly annoyed Melinda Hedding, “no thanks, I already got my stick”. Join one of the many Strider committees and help organize an event. More volunteers means less work for the few individuals who continuously volunteer. Our sport is not as fortunate as some, and nothing just happens by accident or through the work of the full-time hired staff. Running isn’t the NFL; volunteers do 95% of the work. Volunteering is one of the most under-appreciated aspects of our sport. Anyone who has ever participated in a road race as a runner should make their best effort to volunteer at least once in order to appreciate the amenities and hard work that go into putting on a quality road race event.

#1 ATTEND A MOHEGAN STRIDERS EVENT: Get to the next quarterly club meeting.....volunteer at the club-sponsored Delaney Dash Road Race.....attend the Strider’s Summer Picnic. Get to Mohegan Park on Thursday night for the Summer Recreation Races.....donate to a good cause by participating in the Tommy Toy Fund Run. Be a part of the annual Millrose Games Trip to Madison Square Garden (only if you’re male....sorry, ladies). Sign up for the Strider Banquet in advance and be “pre-registered” for a night of great food, great music, and great company. In summary, become a more active member of your running club.

Follow these ten guidelines for a successful 2004 and happier and healthier running. See you on the roads.

NINTH YEAR OF SATURDAY SLUGS SERIES HAS SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE.

By Marshall Collins

Nearly nine years ago, after spending too much time whining about how hard it is to train by yourself for a spring marathon, usually Boston, a few Striders decided to do something about it. We were tired of doing long runs alone in the cold and wind. We agreed that it is much harder to get out the door to start a run during lousy weather, especially if you are alone. We needed company. The answer was to train together and run different and progressively longer courses together for about fourteen weeks. And so the Saturday Slugs Series was born nearly nine years ago.

The first run, on the day after New Year's, was from Eric Isbister's house in Mystic. It was 2 degrees, icy and windy. Five people, including Eric, Tom McColl, Denise Switek, Steve Middel and myself ran 10 miles and had breakfast after we finished. Each week thereafter, we ran from a new location and added one mile. By the last week, we had added a few more live ones and ran 22 miles from Frank Balantic's in Niantic. We were ready for a two-week taper and the 100th Boston.

The simple concept of combining good company with good training remains, but the Saturday Slugs Winter Series run and brunch series has evolved into a series for runners of all abilities and ages.

This year, during the first eight of fourteen weekly stops, we have had between 20 and 55 people each week. Considering some of the brutal weather, those were remarkable turnouts. Each week the host maps out short, medium and long courses and everyone brings something to share for breakfast afterwards. We have had stops in Pawcatuck, Oakdale, Niantic, New London, Uncasville, Groton, Preston and Salem. The food that people have contributed has been just amazing. It is a far cry from the bagels, bananas and coffee after that first run nine years ago. Over the next six weeks (the weather has to improve) we will stop in Salem, Richmond, R.I, Niantic, Griswold, Yantic and Niantic again.

The Series has evolved and now the dedicated few that are marathon training are far outnumbered by those of us that are either trying to maintain a base through the winter, trying to get back into shape, beginning a running program, or getting ready to race in the spring. The point is that there is something for everyone. You cannot use the excuse that the group is too fast or too slow, or that they go too far or not far enough.

The series works because of the hospitality of the hosts each week and the willingness to share. There is still no cost for the series unless you bring children that need a baby sitter and you share the cost of the baby sitters that watch them while you run. The kids get the best deal; they don't have to run and they get first crack at all the food.

We hope that the series will continue to grow. If the number of participants each week gets too large, we will figure out what to do when that happens. We want to encourage people to run and to enjoy the company of other Mohegan Striders. After all that is the basic mission of the Club.

Bob Buckingham's note: We have also had runners join the Striders after experiencing the Saturday series, so if you know a runner who is not in the Striders, bring him/her along some Saturday. Who knows, they may become the next club president.

SHORT TAKES

Okay Okay Okay. Enough already. I KNOW I didn't submit an article for the December newsletter. Geez. I need to feel loved and wanted. I now do. Hence, this column. (Note to self: try the every-other-edition method. Keep 'em hungry and stoke the ol' ego simultaneously).

Well, if you missed the Strider Banquet on February 21, then you passed on an exceptionally fun event. Strider President Tim Kane announced the names of the club members who earned $$$ in the USATF/CT Grand Prix series, Liz Tefft and Nicole Jolley handed out the Strider Grand Prix awards, the traditional Strider raffle netted just under $700 for the Delaney Dash (thank you, Diane Yeager) and our very own house band, The Runz, rocked on into the wee hours of the morning. As always, special thanks to Todd Geurtin and the Geurtones (Ryan and Kyle), Chris "Hot and Waxy" Hansen, Curtiss Thompson, Jim Carper, Laurie Schaeffer, and The Girl Whose Name I Don't Know But Whose Voice Is Amazing, (Ed note: Amy Hannum), for entertaining the club and proving that good music can indeed still inspire those that will never dance publicly to actually find an inconspicuous place on the dance floor to boogie with some friends (yes, that's you, Maryann Bourassa! You Go, Girl!). The evening's most poignant moment had to be when the club gathered together for a group photo (thank you, Nona Peachey) and phone call to our buddy, Steve "Crank" Hancock who was unable to attend the Banquet and who was greatly missed. Under the direction of conductors Tommy Lee and Kevin Gallerani, we serenaded Steve with our version of "The Star Spangled Banner". Steve – Get Well Soon. Please. We love you and Brenda. Tons.

Other Banquet Bits: It was wonderful to witness Bob Niedbala having such a great time on the dance floor; It was shocking (in a good way!) to see Ma-mo Christie enter the building; It was disappointing that Jim Loughead was unable to attend as I so enjoy listening to his Irish brogue; It was heart-warming to spy Glenn and Debbie Costello snuggling all night (yes, I'm a romantic at heart); It was refreshing to know that Linda Jaynes and Jotham Coe had time to shower post-skiing, pre-Banquet; It was comical to watch Tom Degnan grapple with his big decision of the evening: who will receive Tom's affection -- Mary Rose or the Prides Corner Plant?; It was hilarious to listen to Joe and Christine Swift's "Is That A Mouse Crawling Up Your Leg Or Are You Just Screaming Like A Girl?" story. And although I usually bestow the Hottie Award upon Lynne Hansen, this year I must make note of Hubby Chris's transformation – WOW! Sizzle! Still -- the quote of the evening belongs to Lynne who, when confronted with some resistance from Kris-Anne Kane about dancing, retaliated with, "My feet are killing me, I'm wearing nothing, you get out there and dance with me!"

Happy Birthday to Leslie Jolley and Nick Bottone who both turned 50 recently but who seem to be defying the Laws of Aging. New race division, eh? Since Nick prefers announcing road races to running them, he won't be looking to steal any prizes but Leslie "The Kid" will be giving some serious stiff necks to her more senior competition. Leslie and Wayne Jolley, as you know (or should certainly know) are not only the sponsors of the running club that produces the very document you are now reading, but are also generous sponsors of The Delaney Dash Road Race . . .

Great segue, huh? Here we are, right next to the Delaney Dash logo. How appropriate. You will find, in this very newsletter, a race application (well, enough of one for you to register, I suppose). Mark your calendars. Date -- Saturday, May 29, 2004. Same Time -- 9:00 AM. Same Distance -- Five mile run and 5k walk. Same Place -- at Saybrook Point. Once again, No Hassles ergo No Buses! Enormous Thank Yous to Jon Kodama for granting the race permission to use the Dock & Dine parking lot for race day parking again this year. Registration will be at The Fort at Saybrook Point. The race committee desperately needs volunteers. STRIDERS – are you listening? We need your help! I'm sure many Striders want to honor Sean's memory and run. Please do. But if you're injured, don't run, don't want to walk, want to spend the WHOLE day listening to the race announcer drone on and on and on, then please call Pete Volkmar and/or Karen Short at 437-7247. We need your help (am I repeating myself?). The water stop (5), splits (2), intersections (21), registration and scoring (5), refreshments (4), parking (5). . .you get the idea? We need your help! Don't know yet if there will be a post-race party at Tom Degnan's house in Old Lyme. But if there is one, please plan on bringing a dish.

For those new Striders who are not familiar with the Delaney Dash, Sean Delaney was the captain of the Striders Men's Racing Team, a talented runner and a cherished friend. Sean died on May 2, 2000 after fighting cancer for many years. Sean was loyal to the club and is painfully missed by many. The Striders are proud race sponsors.

Race proceeds benefit the Sean Delaney Scholarships which are awarded to two Old Saybrook High School seniors who have participated in track & field and/or cross-country. The race committee will again be awarding two $1000 scholarships. If you wish to donate directly to the scholarship fund, make your tax-deductible checks payable to the "Old Saybrook Education Foundation" and mail to Karen Short, 174 Plant Street, New London, CT 06320. Donations of $100 or more to the scholarship fund (via the Old Saybrook Education Foundation) will be rewarded with free race entry and a plant donated by Prides Corner Farms.

Let's keep Sean's memory running!

And, in closing.....two things:

- I'd like to wish my Boston Bound Buddies, Sue Lamoureux, Annette Barbay and Tracy Citron, loads of good luck on April 19. May your finish line photos capture smiling faces!
- And, to Teresa Dickson who had to make one of Those Adult Decisions regarding her participation in the Boston Marathon: the sacrifices you make now, although difficult and painful at times, will be rewarded with superior grades, a diploma, a degree, and countless patients who will benefit from your intelligence, your drive, your courage, and your compassion.

Jim, Curtiss, Tommy, Billy, Ted and Doug lead the club in singing for Steve.

The Meandering Thoughts of Wandering Strider

Do you Striders realize how incredibly lucky you are? If you attended the Strider Banquet, you would have seen another example of the leadership provided to the club by Tim Kane. Tim has been the Strider president for years. During that time, in addition to training, running and racing himself, he has overseen Strider Banquets (an awesome time again this year), countless Strider meetings, organizing yearly fundraisers at the Norwich Navigators, providing support and encouragement at many races and still finds time after putting in a multitude of overtime in his day job to make Kris-Anne feel like the Queen of his world (ok Kris-Anne, you can make that brandy face now). He has been doing his part, along with the rest of the Strider board, with virtually no public complaint. With a dearth of people willing to step forward to provide relief, the people currently on the Strider board-Mike Fusaro, Eddie Eckard, Lynne Hansen, and Leslie Jolly-have continued to provide their services. But, here's the rub folks; things happen, jobs transfer, lifestyles change and people get burnout. We need people willing to volunteer their time. Maybe not immediately but at least provide their name as someone who would be willing to take over a position. It could also be to just help out with a club function or a club-sponsored race (Delaney Dash, Saturday May 29, 2004). Provide your name to Tim Smith (887-1518). The club leadership board would appreciate it. As for Tim Kane or any of the current board members, next time you see them, be sure to thank them profusely for all of their time and energy that they give to the club. Thanks to all and especially Thank You Tim!!

Strider Racing Team Struts Its Stuff in 2003

By Tim Kane

The Mohegan Striders Racing Teams made their presence felt statewide on the USATF racing circuit in 2003. The Men's Open Team, once again, proved its strength and depth by squeaking by Athlete's Foot by a single point in the final, still unofficial, team standings for 2003. A strong 5th place showing for the Masters Team and a superlative 2nd place by the Men's Grandmasters rounded out one of the Strider's most successful years ever in the USATF Grand Prix. I would like to personally thank each and every Strider who participated on a team in 2003. Your work, while not glorious, certainly helped produce a glorious result and legacy you can be proud of. As soon as the slowly turning cogs of USATF-CT can get their act together (don't hold your breath!) each of you will be rewarded for your fine efforts. Here's looking forward to a much shorter, more interesting 2004 schedule with some much better races!

When you see the following individuals, without whom this great effort and result would not be possible, please thank them for their great work and persistence for the Striders.

2004 USATF CHAMPIONSHIP SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

In 2004, the Men, Women, Open, Master, and Grandmaster teams will all be competing in the same circuit races. The number of races has also been reduced to 6. The race schedule, chosen by the Representatives from the USATF clubs in attendance at the winter meeting and based on the available bids, will be as follows:

SAT 05/01 Middlebury 12K
SUN 06/20 Branford 5 Mile Road Race
SUN 06/27 Fairfield 1/2 Marathon
THU 08/12 River Run Corporate 5K - Hartford
MON 09/06 New Haven Savings Bank 20K
SUN 10/24 Mystic Places Marathon 5 Person Relay

USATF Officers have also recommended that runners sign up for their 2004 USATF cards using the USATF official web site at www.usatf-ct.org. There is a link to this site on the Mohegan Striders web page (www.moheganstriders.org). This method is preferred to signing up on race day and will help expedite the team scoring process in a more efficient manner (remember our club # is 028).
